 Melissa Hussain is soooooo happy that admin agreed to let her have a heart-to-heart talk with all of her students about all the rumors and horrible things her students were doing/saying about her. They were so open and honest it was beautiful. Chat (74)

 Melissa Hussain I was able to shame the kids who were responsible for leaving the bible on my desk without calling them out (never did figure out who did it) and that seemed to be way more powerful to the other students because they realized how much it hurt and offended me and respected me all the more to hear that I didn't want to know because I would never want to know who was ok with doing something so malicious and hurtful.

 Gail Squire Cruz Too bad this couldn't have been parent's night so they could all hear, I am sure this behavior comes from home!

 Peggy L Getz very happy that things worked out and you were able to have this discussion. how old are the kids? agree it's too bad the parents weren't in on it as this is probably behaviour learned at home.

 Dave Sauer Kids can be more cruel than adults, but the learn it from bigoted, stupid and uncaring parents. Sorry you had the problem. Melissa, I am praying for you and Alex that everything will go smoothly from now on.

 Jody Schimmel Awesome that you had the courage to have the talk, and even better that they seem to have learned something. Hopefully you can undo some of their parents' stupidity!

 Melissa Kay Marrero I'm glad you got some closure. I still have a hard time believing this happened. I mean who does that kind of stuff? Idiot kids obviously.

 Melissa Hussain Today a student left a brand new bible on my desk with an anonymous card that said "Merry Christmas" with 'Christ' underlined and bolded. I can't believe the cruelty and ignorance of people sometimes.

 Nick Mason DISLIKE.
December 18, 2009 at 6:26pm

 Candica Noble wow, that is ridiculous. I am so sorry that you have to deal with that ignorance. but, that is part of the reason I went into education - to open the minds of those students. know that you are doing just that.
December 18, 2009 at 6:36pm

 Julianna O'Neill I feel like the only place this would occur is the south...
December 18, 2009 at 6:41pm

 Christina Czenecz-Malta Are you sure this was intended to be mean and cruel?
December 18, 2009 at 7:17pm

 Clint Bradford I'm with Christina on this one. I don't see a problem here, but rather, a student sharing their beliefs.
December 18, 2009 at 8:02pm

 David Hyda given that students called her a Jesus-hater a few weeks ago, I'm thinking it was ignorant southern rednecks, go get 'em miss b, er... mrs. h!
(have fun in the outer banks! merry christMAS!)
December 18, 2009 at 8:25pm

 Jody Schirmmel ok, I took a deep breath...and I'm STILL pissed that students think this is ok. ARGGGGGHHH.
December 18, 2009 at 8:39pm

 Stacey Roman hey melissa, I'm with you, that would piss me off!!!
December 18, 2009 at 9:52pm

 Christina Czenecz-Malta Ewww I didn't know they did that melissa I'm sorry!
December 18, 2009 at 9:58pm

 Melissa Hussain Not only are they spreading rumors around school that I am a Jesus hater, but they are wearing Jesus shirts and breaking into song- "Jesus Loves me" and reading the bible instead of doing my work (which they know would cause me to take away whatever was causing the distraction). There was no love in giving me that Bible, otherwise they would've given it to me rather than leave it on my desk without a signature. This was a hate crime- by definition (looked it up on the FBI website) and I'm not going to let it go unpunished.
December 19, 2009 at 9:46am

 Jay Bonidy I think you need uncle Jay now, have you explained to your class that a name does not make the person, or are you dealing with the arrogant south...remember were you live, that stuff still goes on, tell Alex hello from me. I LOVE U
December 19, 2009 at 9:53am

 Holly Jennifer Woodard That is awful. You need to go speak to your principal about that. In regards to the SOUTH...remember were you live, that stuff still goes on, tell Alex hello from me. I LOVE U comments about being Jewish up there as well. Hatred, intolerance and disrespect is unfortunately everywhere and obviously taught by someone in their lives.

December 19, 2009 at 11:02am

 Jay Bonidy I know there is hatred and judgement everywhere, but I lived in the south and you will not change those rednecks way of thinking. Unfortunately it starts at home with the parents who allow this to happen. I think some old fashion ass whipping needs to happen.
December 19, 2009 at 1:36pm

 Peggy L Getz sorry you have to deal with things like that but I know you will be able to open their minds to more than just the little piece of the world they know and see how differences between people are not all bad. character says such a lot about people and theirs needs improving! good luck. hugs. merry christmas to you and alex.
December 19, 2009 at 4:53pm

 Ry An I think you should get even with all of them by bringing in a Dale Earnhardt Jr. Nascar Poster and drawing a swastika on his forehead. The kids would all start crying. Then you would be "teaching" them a lesson.

 Melissa Hussain I'm sooo glad today is trackout day! I don't have to report back to work till Jan 19. I LOVE YEAR ROUND! I hate parents who call me at work to complain about their child's first B in their middle school career...and then when I say I won't give them the extra 1.8 points for the A they want to know why I don't "feel the holiday spirit". Alex thinks we should start a blog based on ridiculous students and their parents
